Some of the content of the questions in the survey are sensitive in nature. This research is covered by a Certificate of Confidentiality from the National Institutes of Health. The Certificate of Confidentiality (CoC) protects your privacy by prohibiting disclosure of identifiable, sensitive research information to anyone not connected to the research. This means that the researchers cannot release or use information that may identify you in any action or suit unless you say it is okay. An example would be a court subpoena.

The Certificate does not stop reporting what federal, state or local laws require. Some examples are laws that require reporting of child or elder abuse and threats to harm yourself or others. CIPSEA, explained on the next screen, does protect from this reporting and covers this research. Neither protect from any physical harm to yourself or others that may result from this survey. If at any point you do not feel safe while completing the survey, you can stop the survey and complete it at a later time that is better. There will also be resources available throughout the survey should you feel you need talk with anyone.

[GRID SP; 5,5,5,5,5]
CONT_SEX_NOSEX_PHONE.
Next, I will read a list of methods that some people use to prevent pregnancy or to prevent sexually transmitted disease. Please tell me if you have ever used the method for any reason, even if you have only used it once.

GRID ITEMS:
A. Birth control pills READ IF NEEDED: Also called the pill or oral contraceptives. A series of pills taken daily. Pills are used to help women avoid getting pregnant. They can also be used to regulate menstrual periods, help relieve pain from cramps, or to treat acne. There are two types of pills, combination pills that contain the hormones estrogen and progestin and progestin-only pills.

B. [SHOW IF SEX1_NEW=1] Condoms (male partner's) READ IF NEEDED: Latex or rubber covering placed tightly over the penis during sex. These form a barrier between the penis and the woman's vagina. Used to prevent pregnancy and to protect against sexually transmitted infections, such as herpes and HIV.

C. [SHOW IF SEX1_NEW=1] Partner's vasectomy READ IF NEEDED: Also known as male sterilization, is an operation that causes male sterility by cutting or removing part of the male sperm duct (vas deferens) so that sperm can no longer pass through.

D. Depo-Provera injectables (shot every 3 months) READ IF NEEDED: A shot or injection of a hormone (progestin) or hormones (estrogen and progestin) that is given every 3 months to prevent pregnancy. Also known as Depo.
[SPACE]
A shot given every month is called Lunelle and will be asked about in another question.

E. [SHOW IF SEX1_NEW=1] Withdrawal, pulling out READ IF NEEDED: The man removes his penis from a woman's vagina before he ejaculates.

F. [SHOW IF SEX1_NEW=1] Calendar rhythm method to prevent pregnancy READ IF NEEDED: A woman's fertile period is determined by counting the days from the start of her period that month. The woman then abstains from sexual intercourse during her fertile period or uses another method of birth control.
[SPACE]
Count as "yes" anything you did that involved counting days and avoiding sexual intercourse or using a method during what you thought was your fertile window.
[SPACE]
If you have only used this method to get pregnant, please say "No".

G. [SHOW IF SEX1_NEW=1] Standard Days or CycleBeads method to prevent pregnancy READ IF NEEDED: A woman's fertile period is determined by counting the days from the first day of her menstrual cycle. Days 8 through 19 are the fertile period and the woman either abstains from sexual intercourse or uses another method of birth control during that time.
[SPACE]
CycleBeads are used as a visual tool to help keep track of the fertile window.

H. [SHOW IF SEX1_NEW=1] Safe period by temperature or cervical mucus test to prevent pregnancy (for example: Two Day Method, Billings Ovulation Method, Symptothermal Method) READ IF NEEDED: A woman's fertile period is determined by using a thermometer to check her temperature and by looking at the consistency of her cervical mucus. The woman then abstains from sexual intercourse or uses birth control during her fertile period.
[SPACE]
If you have only used this method to  get pregnant, please say "No".

I. [SHOW IF SEX1_NEW=1] Natural Cycles app to prevent pregnancy READ IF NEEDED: This is an app where you enter information about your temperature and menstrual cycles. The app gives you a fertility status each day. The app can be used to prevent or plan a pregnancy. Please enter yes if you have used the app to prevent a pregnancy. If you have only used the app to help you  get pregnant please say "No".

J. Contraceptive patch (Ortho-Evra or Xulane) READ IF NEEDED: A patch containing hormones similar to birth control pills that is worn on the upper arm, torso, abdomen, or the buttocks to prevent pregnancy and is changed weekly.

K. Vaginal contraceptive ring (NuvaRing, Annovera, or EluRyng) READ IF NEEDED: A clear, flexible ring that is inserted into the vagina. Hormones that prevent pregnancy are continuously released into the body.

L. [SHOW IF SEX1_NEW=1] Emergency contraception pills (for example: Plan B, Preven, Ella, Next Choice "Morning after" pills) READ IF NEEDED: One pill or a series of pills containing a high dose of combined oral contraceptives, taken after sexual intercourse has occurred.

M. Hormonal implant (Norplant, Implanon, or Nexplanon) READ IF NEEDED: Small matchstick-like rod(s) inserted under the skin of a woman's arm, by a medical provider. Protects against pregnancy for up to five years, or until removed.

N. IUD (intrauterine device), (for example, Copper-T, Paragard, Mirena, Skyla, Liletta, Kyleena) READ IF NEEDED: An IUD or intrauterine device is a plastic or copper and plastic device inserted by a medical provider into the uterus to prevent pregnancy.

O. [SHOW IF SEX1_NEW=1] Vaginal Contraceptive Film READ IF NEEDED: A thin film that is inserted into the vagina before sex. The film dissolves and releases spermicide.

P. [SHOW IF SEX1_NEW=1] Diaphragm READ IF NEEDED: (with or without jelly or cream) A latex rubber or silicone device inserted into the vagina to cover the cervix to block the entry of sperm into the uterus during sex. Used with spermicidal jelly or cream.

Q. [SHOW IF SEX1_NEW=1] Female condom, internal condom READ IF NEEDED: Also called an internal condom, it is a loose-fitting pouch with a ring on each end, inserted into the vagina to block the entry of sperm into the uterus.   Used to prevent pregnancy and to protect against sexually transmitted diseases.

R. [SHOW IF SEX1_NEW=1] Foam READ IF NEEDED: A spermicidal foam inserted in the vagina before sex to prevent pregnancy or to help protect against disease.

S. [SHOW IF SEX1_NEW=1] Jelly or cream READ IF NEEDED: A spermicidal gel or cream used in the vagina during sex to prevent pregnancy or to help protect against disease.

T. [SHOW IF SEX1_NEW=1] Cervical cap READ IF NEEDED: A small latex rubber or silicone device inserted in the vagina and placed over the cervix before sex to block the entry of sperm into the uterus. May be used with or without spermicide.

U. [SHOW IF SEX1_NEW=1] Suppository, insert READ IF NEEDED: A tablet, capsule, or solid substance that dissolves in the vagina to produce a spermicidal foam or cream. It is inserted prior to sex to prevent pregnancy.

V. [SHOW IF SEX1_NEW=1] Today sponge [READ IF NEEDED: The brand name of a vaginal contraceptive, this disposable foam sponge is inserted in the vagina before sex and covers the cervix. It is a disposable, soft sponge that contains a spermicide that foams when moistened with water.]

W. [SHOW IF SEX1_NEW=1] Phexxi Gel READ IF NEEDED: This is a prescription vaginal gel used to prevent pregnancy. It comes in pre-filled applicators and is used before each act of sexual intercourse.

X. Lunelle (once-a-month shot) READ IF NEEDED: A shot or injection of hormones (progestin and estrogen, the same hormones found in oral contraceptives), that is given monthly, to prevent pregnancy. The only difference between Lunelle and Depo-Provera is the time between the shots. Lunelle is given monthly, and Depo-Provera is given every three months.]

RELDLIFE:

Religion refers to personal religious beliefs, not necessarily to a specific organized religion.

ATTNDNOW:

Religious services mean an official worship service, but not other church group meetings or church-related events.

EA-1 PILL:

Also called the pill or oral contraceptives. A series of pills taken daily. Pills are used to help women avoid getting pregnant. They can also be used to regulate menstrual periods, help relieve pain from cramps, or to treat acne. There are two types of pills, combination pills that contain the hormones estrogen and progestin and progestin-only pills.

EA−2 CONDOM:

Latex or rubber covering placed tightly over the penis during sex. These form a barrier between the penis and the woman's vagina. Used to prevent pregnancy and to protect against sexually transmitted infections, such as herpes and HIV.

EA−3 VASECTMY:

Also known as male sterilization, is an operation that causes male sterility by cutting or removing part of the male sperm duct (vas deferens) so that sperm can no longer pass through.

EA−4 DEPOPROV:

A shot or injection of a hormone (progestin) or hormones (estrogen and progestin) that is given every 3 months to prevent pregnancy. Also known as Depo.

A shot given every month is called Lunelle and will be asked about in another question.

EA−6 WIDRAWAL:

The man removes his penis from a woman's vagina before he ejaculates.

EA−7a RHYTHM:

[For select all that apply series, the following paragraph should display, as well as the rest of the text following it]
With this method, a woman counts the days in her menstrual cycle to identify which days she can get pregnant, or "unsafe" days. This can include using an app for this method.

[For yes/no series, only the following paragraphs should display]

A woman's fertile period is determined by counting the days from the start of her period that month. The woman then abstains from sexual intercourse during her fertile period or uses another method of birth control.

Count as "yes" anything you did that involved counting days and avoiding sexual intercourse or using a method during what you thought was your fertile window.

If you have only used this method to get pregnant, select "No."

EA - 7b SDAYCBDS:

[For select all that apply series, the following paragraph should display, as well as the rest of the text following it]

These methods identify days 8 to 19 of the cycle as days a woman can get pregnant, or "unsafe" days. This can include using an app for these methods.

[For yes/no series, only the following paragraphs should display]

A woman's fertile period is determined by counting the days from the first day of her menstrual cycle. Days 8 through 19 are the fertile period and the woman either abstains from sexual intercourse or uses another method of birth control during that time.

CycleBeads are used as a visual tool to help keep track of the fertile window.

EA−8 TEMPSAFE:

A woman's fertile period is determined by using a thermometer to check her temperature and by looking at the consistency of her cervical mucus. The woman then abstains from sexual intercourse or uses birth control during her fertile period.

If you have only used this method to get pregnant, select "No."

EA-8b NATCYCA:
This is an app where you enter information about your temperature and menstrual cycles. The app gives you a fertility status each day. The app can be used to prevent or plan a pregnancy. Please enter yes if you have used the app to prevent a pregnancy. If you have only used the app to help you get pregnant please select [no].

EA−9 PATCH:

A patch containing hormones similar to birth control pills that is worn on the upper arm, torso, abdomen, or the buttocks to prevent pregnancy and is changed weekly.

EA−10 RING:

A clear, flexible ring that is inserted into the vagina. Hormones that prevent pregnancy are continuously released into the body.

EA−11 MORNPILL:
One pill or a series of pills containing a high dose of combined oral contraceptives, taken after sexual intercourse has occurred.

EA-13c IMPLANT:

Small matchstick-like rod(s) inserted under the skin of a woman's arm, by a medical provider. Protects against pregnancy for up to five years, or until removed.

EA-13d IUD:

An IUD or intrauterine device is a plastic or copper and plastic device inserted by a medical provider into the uterus to prevent pregnancy.

EA−14 OTHRMETH:

Vaginal contraceptive film: A thin film that is inserted into the vagina before sex. The film dissolves and releases spermicide.

Diaphragm: (with or without jelly or cream) A latex rubber or silicone device inserted into the vagina to cover the cervix to block the entry of sperm into the uterus during sex. Used with spermicidal jelly or cream.

Female condoms: Also called an internal condom, it is a loose-fitting pouch with a ring on each end, inserted into the vagina to block the entry of sperm into the uterus.   Used to prevent pregnancy and to protect against sexually transmitted diseases.

Foam: A spermicidal foam inserted in the vagina before sex to prevent pregnancy or to help protect against disease.

Jelly or cream (other than with a diaphragm): A spermicidal gel or cream used in the vagina during sex to prevent pregnancy or to help protect against disease.
Cervical cap: A small latex rubber or silicone device inserted in the vagina and placed over the cervix before sex to block the entry of sperm into the uterus. May be used with or without spermicide.

Suppository or an insert: A tablet, capsule, or solid substance that dissolves in the vagina to produce a spermicidal foam or cream. It is inserted prior to sex to prevent pregnancy.

Today sponge: The brand name of a vaginal contraceptive, this disposable foam sponge is inserted in the vagina before sex and covers the cervix. It is a disposable, soft sponge that contains a spermicide that foams when moistened with water.

Phexxi: This is a prescription vaginal gel used to prevent pregnancy. It comes in pre-filled applicators and is used before each act of sexual intercourse.

Lunelle injectable (monthly shot): A shot or injection of hormones (progestin and estrogen, the same hormones found in oral contraceptives), that is given monthly, to prevent pregnancy. The only difference between Lunelle and Depo-Provera is the time between the shots. Lunelle is given monthly, and Depo-Provera is given every three months.

Other methods: Methods that are used to prevent pregnancy or to protect against sexually transmitted disease, or for any other reason, should be recorded here.
