Every community member has an important role in preventing teen crashes.

If your organization can help reach parents of young drivers, we ask that you pitch in to help save the lives of about 3,000 kids that die on U.S. roads each year—that's eight teens a day.

Through the “Parents Are the Key” campaign, CDC seeks to distribute safe teen driving tools to all parents of new teen drivers. The posters, flyers and fact sheets available at www.cdc.gov/parentsarethekey will help parents to keep their teens safe behind the wheel.

Thanks for your support.
