Program Collaboration and Service Integration:
Next Steps

Kevin Fenton, M.D., Ph.D., F.F.P.H.
Director
National Center for HIV/AIDS, Viral Hepatitis, STD, and TB Prevention
Centers for Disease Control and Prevention

August 22, 2007

Overview

- Addressing barriers to PCSI
- Next steps

Addressing Barriers to PCSI

- Develop a national policy on PCSI
  - Green paper
  - Stakeholder consultation
  - White paper

- Explore funding for program collaboration and service integration
  - Analyze budget authorities
  - Explore opportunities for seed money
  - Ensure new program announcements promote program integration

- Streamline administrative requirements
  - Continue work with PGO on requirements
  - Collaborate with CDC portfolio management project to pilot new contractual procedures with states

Addressing Barriers to PCSI (continued)

- Harmonize and synchronize data collection and surveillance
  - Establish cross center work group
  - Publish STD/HIV integrated interview record
  - Publish integrated annual surveillance reports
  - Convene strategic information workgroup

- Develop integrated prevention guidelines
  - Commission workgroups to develop guidelines
  - Ensure guidelines included in policy documents

- Coordinate CDC program announcements and reporting requirements
  - Review PAs to ensure PCSI included

Addressing Barriers to PCSI (continued)

- Develop mechanisms for translation and integration of science and program
  - Update and publish evidence-based guidelines
  - Update and publish evidence-based prevention interventions
  - Fund operational research and evaluation on PCSI

- Provide support, both technical and financial, for cross training, evaluation and dissemination of best practices
  - Develop cross-center workgroups
  - Collaborate with National Prevention Training Centers
  - Fund integrated training curricula
  - Develop web-based portal
  - Seek funding to establish regional networks

Next Steps

- Winter 2007
  - Publication of NCHHSTP white paper on PCSI

- Spring 2008
  - Publication of NCHHSTP Action Plan for PCSI