

What parents can expect in behavior therapy

Parents typically attend 8–16 sessions with a therapist and learn strategies to help their child. Sessions may involve groups or individual families.

The therapist meets regularly with the family to monitor progress and provide support.

Between sessions, parents practice using the skills they've learned from the therapist.

After therapy ends, families continue to experience improved behavior and reduced stress.

