CORONAVIRUS DISEASE 2019 (COVID-19) AND MINING

COVID-19 is a respiratory illness that can spread from person to person. Miners and operators should take steps to prevent illness and spread of COVID-19.

WHAT MINERS SHOULD DO:

- Wash your hands often with soap and water. If soap and water are not available, use a hand sanitizer containing at least 60% alcohol. Avoid touching your face, nose, and eyes.

- Cover coughs and sneezes. Always cover your mouth and nose with a tissue or use the inside of your elbow.

- To protect others, wear a mask [https://www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-ncov/prevent-getting-sick/diy-cloth-face-coverings.html] to block respiratory droplets made by coughs, sneezes, talking, or breathing when you aren’t wearing your respiratory personal protective equipment (PPE).

- Put distance between yourself and others (stay at least 6 feet away, which is about 2 arm lengths). This includes not crowding personnel carriers, hoists, and elevators, or other means of transportation at a mine to maintain 6 feet of distance between you and others.

- Continue wearing and properly cleaning your personal protective equipment (PPE). Masks should not be worn if the miner is wearing a tight-fitting respirator.

WHAT TO DO IF YOU HAVE SYMPTOMS

- Call your healthcare provider (doctor, nurse, or clinic) or local health department.
- Stay home, except to get medical care, and avoid close contact with others.
- Separate yourself from other people and pets in your home.
- Monitor your symptoms. Follow the care instructions from your healthcare provider and your local health department.
- Check with your local public health officials and follow state and local guidance for reducing the spread of COVID-19.
- Do not travel unless you absolutely have to.

WHEN TO SEEK MEDICAL ATTENTION

If you develop any of the following emergency warning signs for COVID-19, call 911 and get medical help immediately:

- Trouble breathing
- New confusion
- Inability to wake or stay awake
- Pale, gray, or blue-colored skin, lips, or nail beds, depending on skin tone

Notify the operator that you have, or think you might have, COVID-19. If possible, put a mask on before medical help arrives.
