

On March 7-8, a two-day Transatlantic Taskforce on Antimicrobial Resistance (TATFAR) meeting was held in Atlanta. TATFAR members convened to strengthen collaboration against growing resistance to life-saving antimicrobial drugs. The meeting included government agency representatives from Canada, the European Union, Norway, and the United States, along with other leading experts on antimicrobial resistance (AMR).

The video shows the opening session, which included the meeting's two keynote speakers: Xavier Prats-Monné, Director General for Health and Food Safety within the European Commission, and Anne Schuchat, Acting Director for U.S. CDC, and Acting Administrator of the Agency for Toxic Substances and Disease Registry, U.S. CDC.

Learn more about TATFAR at <https://www.cdc.gov/drugresistance/tatfar/index.html>.