

Donald Haverkamp – Epidemiologist, Division of Cancer Prevention and Control Centers for Disease Control and Prevention

Donald Haverkamp is an epidemiologist with the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, in the Division of Cancer Prevention and Control. He works to increase colorectal cancer screening among diverse communities. Prior to working with CDC, Mr. Haverkamp worked as a communicable disease investigator assessing Latino health issues in California and served as a United States Peace Corps volunteer in the Dominican Republic, working on various community health projects. Mr. Haverkamp earned a Master's in Public Health degree, with an emphasis in epidemiology, from the San Diego State University's Graduate School of Public Health in 2003.