

U.S. cancer survivors face significant economic burden due to growing medical costs, missed work and inability to work, and lost productivity because of sick days.

