

Gregory Armstrong, MD

Incident Manager , Polio Eradication Response,
Emergency Operations Center

Gregory Armstrong, MD, is board certified in infectious disease medicine and has been at CDC since 1997, working in the Division of Viral Hepatitis, the refugee health section of the Division of Global Migration and Quarantine, and as Epidemiology Branch Chief in the Division of Viral Diseases. He joined the Global Immunization Division in January 2012 as part of the scale-up of CDC's polio activities. As incident manager, he oversees the division's polio activities, which were moved to the EOC starting in December 2011.

U.S. Department of Health and Human Services
Centers for Disease Control and Prevention