Case Goal
Appropriate early intensive educational therapies greatly improve long-term outcomes for children with autism spectrum disorder (ASD). Effective primary care management of ASD includes supporting families by referral for appropriate therapies and community resources.

Key Learning Points of this Case
1. Discuss the evidence base and recommended educational therapies for children with ASD.
   a. List the key features of successful early educational programs for children with ASD.

   ______________________________________________________________________________________
   ______________________________________________________________________________________
   ______________________________________________________________________________________

   b. Describe the current evidence base for commonly used behavioral therapies.

   ______________________________________________________________________________________
   ______________________________________________________________________________________

   c. Understand the typical components of early intervention programs for children with ASD, age 3 years and younger.

   ______________________________________________________________________________________
   ______________________________________________________________________________________

   d. Understand the difference between diagnosis and eligibility for an individual educational plan (IEP) for children with ASD, age 3 years and older.

   ______________________________________________________________________________________
   ______________________________________________________________________________________
   ______________________________________________________________________________________

2. Provide ongoing support and management for children with ASD and their families regarding educational therapies.
   a. Identify the needs of families in the transition from Early Intervention to preschool.

   ______________________________________________________________________________________
   ______________________________________________________________________________________
   ______________________________________________________________________________________

   b. Understand the process for evaluating problem behaviors to develop a home treatment plan for children with ASD.

Case Study Part I

Tim is a 2-year, 5-month-old boy who is brought to your office by his parents for a follow-up visit. At his 18-month well-child visit, he was using three single words and would cry or scream when he wanted something. Based on language delay, you referred him to his local Early Intervention (Part C) program, which has been providing Tim with an hour each of individual and group speech-language services on a weekly basis. At his 2-year well-child visit, his mother reported that he appeared to be in “his own world.” He played repetitively on his own with his favorite toy train for most of the day. He didn’t seem interested in other children. She also reported some atypical behaviors. He walked back and forth in the family’s living room and stared at the ceiling fan for long periods. Given Tim’s history of communication delays, social impairments, and atypical behaviors, you referred him to a developmental-behavioral pediatrician, who recently diagnosed him with an ASD. Today, Tim’s parents are feeling overwhelmed by his new diagnosis and want guidance from you on the components of his treatment program.

Case Study Part II

Tim is now 2 years, 11 months. For the last several months, Tim has been receiving 25 hours per week of services through his local early intervention program. He receives three hours per day of a center-based developmental program for toddlers and two hours per day of ABA at home, both for five days per week. Speech-language therapy is included at his center-based program. In anticipation of his third birthday, he was evaluated by special education staff at his local school system to determine his eligibility for special education services. His parents will be attending their first individualized education plan (IEP) meeting next week. They are wondering what to expect.

Case Study Part III - Epilogue

Tim is now 4 years old, and his parents return for a follow-up visit. An IEP was implemented for him. He attends a special-needs preschool program through his local school district. His IEP provides for placement in a small classroom. He receives ABA, as well as speech and occupational therapy. His parents are pleased that he is making progress in his communication and social skills. However, at home they are concerned that he has to have his toys and meals a certain way, has tantrums daily, and is aggressive toward his younger sister, biting and kicking her when he is frustrated.

Requesting an Evaluation

1. Parents must request an evaluation of their child (i.e., psychological and/or educational testing) in writing.
2. The school district must provide, within 15 days of receiving the parents' request, written notice that an evaluation of the child will begin. The parents must then provide written consent to the school district to proceed with the evaluation. Note: The parents’ request for an evaluation and their giving consent for that evaluation are two separate steps. The latter step is necessary for the school district to proceed with its evaluation.
3. The school district must complete its evaluation of the child within 60 days of receiving parental consent. If a particular state has a different timeline for completing evaluations, that timeline applies.
4. Based on the evaluation, the school district will determine whether the child is eligible for special education services under the categories of disability defined in the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA).
5. The individual education plan (IEP) team must meet within 30 days of finding a child eligible for special education services. The parents should participate in this meeting. Parents must be given the opportunity to review the child’s evaluation (i.e., results of testing) before this meeting.
6. If the parents disagree with the evaluation, they have the right to request an independent educational evaluation.

Attending an IEP Meeting

1. Parents may bring anyone they want to a child’s IEP meeting. Some parents may wish to bring an additional family member or friend for support and to help take notes. Other parents may wish to bring an educational advocate.
2. The following should be discussed at the IEP meeting:
   - An explanation of parents/guardians’ legal rights
   - Child’s current level of performance, based on results of the evaluation and observations of parents and teachers
   - Measurable annual goals for the child
   - Child’s placement (i.e., classroom setting) in school and necessary supports (e.g., trained aides, curriculum modification, assistive technology devices)
   - If the child is not in full-inclusion placement, opportunities for integration
3. Parents must sign the IEP before services begin. However, parents have the opportunity to think about it at home before signing. Additionally, parents may consent to parts of the IEP and dispute other parts. The services that parents consent to may begin while disputed portions of the IEP are reviewed.

Expectations after an IEP Meeting

1. Encourage parents to establish regular communication with the child’s teachers, therapists, and trained aides.
2. Parents should receive quarterly progress reports from the school, documenting the child’s progress toward measurable annual goals.
3. Parents may request additional IEP meetings, in the same school year, to address concerns and to revise the IEP if the child is not progressing as expected.

SECTION II. SUMMARY OF FAMILY’S CONCERNS, PRIORITIES, AND RESOURCES
AS THEY RELATE TO ENHANCING THEIR CHILD’S DEVELOPMENT - Family Outcome

1. Information about our family for the IFSP: (Suggestions)
   - Things we like to do as a family
   - People and agencies we find helpful.
   - Who is part of our family?
   - Our family’s strengths in meeting our child’s needs.
   - Important events that have occurred
   - How our child’s special needs affect our family

2. What would be helpful for our family in the months and year ahead? (Family Outcome)

3. What assistance or information will we need to achieve this outcome? (Strategies)

SECTION III. OTHER SERVICES THAT ARE IN PLACE OR ARE NEEDED
Services such as medical, recreational, religious, social and other child related services, not covered by the CT Birth to Three System, that contribute to this plan.

Nonparticipation Justification

Is the student removed from the general education classroom at any time? (Refer to IEP 5—Service Delivery, Section C.)

☐ No ☐ Yes If yes, why is removal considered critical to the student’s program?

IDEA 2004 Regulation 20 U.S.C. §612 (a) (5).550: "...removal of children with disabilities from the regular educational environment occurs only when the nature or severity of the disability of a child is such that education in regular classes with the use of supplementary aids and services cannot be achieved satisfactorily." (Emphasis added.)

Schedule Modification

Shorter: Does this student require a shorter school day or shorter school year?

☐ No ☐ Yes — shorter day ☐ Yes — shorter year If yes, answer the questions below.

Longer: Does this student require a longer school day or a longer school year to prevent substantial loss of previously learned skills and / or substantial difficulty in relearning skills?

☐ No ☐ Yes — longer day ☐ Yes — longer year If yes, answer the questions below.

How will the student’s schedule be modified? Why is this schedule modification being recommended?

If a longer day or year is recommended, how will the school district coordinate services across program components?

Transportation Services

Does the student require transportation as a result of the disability(ies)?

☐ No Regular transportation will be provided in the same manner as it would be provided for students without disabilities. If the child is placed away from the local school, transportation will be provided.

☐ Yes Special transportation will be provided in the following manner:

☐ on a regular transportation vehicle with the following modifications and/or specialized equipment and precautions:

☐ on a special transportation vehicle with the following modifications and/or specialized equipment and precautions:

After the team makes a transportation decision and after a placement decision has been made, a parent may choose to provide transportation and may be eligible for reimbursement under certain circumstances. Any parent who plans to transport their child to school should notify the school district contact person.

State or District-Wide Assessment

Identify state or district-wide assessments planned during this IEP period:

Fill out the table below. Consider any state or district-wide assessment to be administered during the time span covered by this IEP. For each content area, identify the student’s assessment participation status by putting an “X” in the corresponding box for column 1, 2, or 3.

1. Assessment participation:
   Student participates in on-demand testing under routine conditions in this content area.

2. Assessment participation:
   Student participates in on-demand testing with accommodations in this content area. (See  below)

3. Assessment participation:
   Student participates in alternate assessment in this content area. (See  below)

For each content area identified by an X in the column 2 above: note in the space below, the content area and describe the accommodations necessary for participation in the on-demand testing. Any accommodations used for assessment purposes should be closely modeled on the accommodations that are provided to the student as part of his/her instructional program.

For each content area identified by an X in column 3 above: note in the space below, the content area, why the on-demand assessment is not appropriate and how that content area will be alternately assessed. Make sure to include the learning standards that will be addressed in each content area, the recommended assessment method(s) and the recommended evaluation and reporting method(s) for the student’s performance on the alternate assessment.

NOTE

When state model(s) for alternate assessment are adopted, the district may enter use of state model(s) for how content area(s) will be assessed.
