

Program Collaboration and Service Integration (PCSI)

SERVICE INTEGRATION

Definition: Service integration is a distinct method of service delivery, characterized by features such as common intake and 'seamless' service delivery, where the client may receive a range of prevention and other services from different disease areas or programs without repeated registration procedures, waiting periods, or other administrative barriers.

