Definition of Construct

- Sexual Orientation:
 - Generic term, catch-all
- Sexual Behavior:
 - Same-sex vs. opposite-sex behavior
 - Not necessarily consistent with self-conception or presentation of self
 - Design problem: what counts as “sex” varies across sub-groups
- Sexual Attraction:
 - Same vs. opposite sex/gender desire
 - Not necessarily consistent with self-conception or presentation of self
 - Latent and elusive phenomena, not tangible, not observable
 - Design problem: Variation in conceptualization, particularly in what respondents consider and actually report
- Sexual Identity
 - Conscious understanding and identification of self
 - Similar to racial identity
 - Represents individuals’ relationship to social world
 - Design problem: complex and fluctuating

Question Response Process

Overall, during the past 4 weeks, how much difficulty did you have with thinking clearly and solving daily problems?

Patterns of Interpretation/Construct Equivalence

Non-Minority Patterns	LGBT Patterns
Lack of salient sexual identity	Highly salient
No concept of sexual identity but rather dis-identification	Identity rooted in complex process of negotiating and forming a sexual identity
“not me,” “I’m normal,” “soy mujer,” “I don’t know”	Shifting sexual identity For transgender respondents, intersection of gender and sexuality
Provided response categories: Interpretation of ‘heterosexual’ as gay; ‘bisexual’ as heterosexual	Provided response categories: Use of non-traditional identity categories

Problematic Response Patterns

Non-Minority Patterns	Result	LGBT Patterns
	High rate of 'something else'
Because doesn't know terminology		Because uses another label
	High rate of 'Don't know'
Because doesn't know terminology		Because shifting sexual identity
	Misclassification into 'bisexual'
Because believes implies heterosexuality		Because interprets question as attraction or behavior

Design for New Question

Goals for New Question:

1. Reduce misclassification, especially for non-minorities
2. Reduce “something else” and “don’t knows”
3. Sort non-minority from minority cases

Revision Based on Principles:

1. Use labels that respondents use to refer to themselves
2. Do not use labels that respondents do not understand—especially if not required by any respondents
3. Use follow-up questions to meaningfully categorize ‘something else’ and ‘don’t know’

Iterative Testing

- English: No changes for 93 cognitive interviews
- Spanish: 1 change after 28 cognitive interviews
 - Misclassification: Cases where heterosexuals chose ‘something else,’ ‘bisexual,’ ‘lesbian or gay’
 - Originally, ‘No es gay’
 - ✦ The word ‘straight’ is not used because no equivalent in Spanish
 - Slang terms vary significantly by country
 - ✦ The word ‘gay’ not always understood – thought ‘gay’ was an English term; implied bisexuality or didn’t know
 - ✦ While not consistently used across respondents, the word ‘heterosexual’ is more commonly used in Spanish than in English
 - Changed to ‘heterosexual, o sea, no es gay’
 - ✦ Tested in 18 Spanish-speaking, heterosexuals
 - ✦ No errors identified

Testing results

- Confirmed findings from previous studies
- All but a few respondents successfully categorized
 - Couple respondents reported behavior (bisexual) rather than identity (gay/lesbian)
 - Several Spanish respondents: did not know 'gay,' but instead knew the word 'heterosexual'
 - Transgender respondents: some reported straight, some reported transgender

Limitations/Additional work

- Washington DC metro region
- Different vocabulary can vary (particularly true for Spanish)
- Field Tests and Field Problems
