Webinar Overview

This live webinar will describe lessons learned in moving from observational epidemiology of STIs and HIV interaction with a focus on HSV-2 to testing interventions to reduce HIV acquisition and transmission. This webinar will also describe current work on combination HIV prevention to achieve high coverage of HIV testing and linkages to effective interventions (HIV treatment and male circumcision) in sub-Saharan Africa. This webinar will conclude with a live question and answer session.

Learning Objectives

- Discuss clinical significance of the STD prevention issue.
- Describe epidemiological trends related to the STD prevention issue.
- Identify key screening, treatment, and prevention recommendations for management of the STD prevention issue.
- Promote health improvement, wellness, and disease prevention in cooperation with patients, communities, at-risk populations, and other members of an interprofessional team of health care providers.
