

From Me, To You.

There are many things you will share with your baby.

But some of the most important are the things you can't see. Getting recommended vaccines during pregnancy helps share your immunity with your baby before they are born and for months after.

Talk with a healthcare provider you trust about the vaccines that are right for you during your pregnancy.

